Receptions And Banquets Await The Explorer When He Reaches Copenhagen Tomorrow Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Copenhagen, Sept. 3.—The steamer Hans Egede, with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the American explorer, on board, passed Cape Skagen, at the northern extremity of Denmark, at two this afternoon.
Cape Skagen is 175 miles from Copenhagen and the Hans Egede will probably come into port sometime during the night.

Went on Board
Skagen, Denmark, Sept. 3.—The newspaper correspondent who went on board the Hans Egede from the pilot steamer off here was able to obtain a few words with Dr. Cook.
The explorer described his success to the fact that he made use of the old methods, namely, Eskimos and dogs, and that he lived like an Eskimo himself.
The doctor then gave, a hurried being prepared in his honor, he probably will end by wishing himself back in the latitude of ninety degrees with scant fare at the northernmost point of the world.

The social activities will begin directly when the steamer Melchior, bearing the committee of the Royal Geographic Society with Maurice F. Egan, the American minister, as their guest, meets the Hans Egede, and Dr. Cook will be given a reception and banquet on board the Melchior.
King Frederick of Denmark has intimated a desire to receive Dr. Cook Saturday morning and from this time onward dinners, receptions and galas will be incessant.
The entertainments will include banquets by the Minister of Commerce, the municipal council of Copenhagen and Minister Egan, all in honor of Dr. Cook.
Hundreds of telegrams from America and all parts of the world have been received at the American legation for him.
His Majesty has arranged to entertain Dr. Cook at luncheon tomorrow and the municipal banquet to the explorer will be given in the town hall tomorrow night.

The kind of traveler who is equal to what he undertakes. In 1893 he attempted to scale Mount McKinley, following the trail of Alfred H. Brooks and D. L. Rasmussen, the first white men to reach the base of the famous Alaska mountain. He was driven back by glaciers, but the topographical data he obtained convinced him that the ascent was not impossible. Three years later he organized a new expedition and attacked the grim mountain that rose 14,000 feet above the line of perpetual snow and 20,000 feet above the sea level. "For hellish conditions, and physical discomforts the quest of the North Pole compared with the ascent of Mount McKinley, is a tame adventure," he declared. For months he pushed on upon his perilous exploit, fording icy glaciers, crossing treacherous marshes, braving wind-swept peaks and gloomy canyons and gulches, until with a single companion he reached the summit of this heaven-piercing mountain, September 16, 1896, four months to a day from the time he left Seattle.
The Arctic region are not new fields to Dr. Cook. He accompanied the Peary expedition, an expedition in 1891-92, where he gained his first taste for polar adventure. In 1897 he joined the Belgian antarctic expedition, the first exploration party to penetrate the southern sphere of perpetual ice in half a century.

IN COMMEMORATION OF BLOODY BATTLES

Shaft For Indian Fights In White Stone Hills Dedicated At Monong, N. D. Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monong, N. D., Sept. 3.—Simple but impressive ceremonies attended the dedication today of a monument erected to commemorate the bloody battles of White Stone Hills, between United States troops and the Indians. Several thousand persons, including official representatives of North Dakota and a handful of survivors of the Indian wars, were present at the dedication.
The battles of White Stone Hills, which occurred Sept. 3 and 5, 1863, were among the most sanguinary engagements fought during the Indian wars in this section of the country. The United States troops consisted of the Second Nebraska Cavalry and the Sixth Iowa Cavalry. Brigadier General Alfred Sully was in command. The enemy consisted of several bands of Sioux Indians, outnumbering the whites about two to one.
The Indians were encamped in a small valley surrounded by high, steep hills, in the heart of the buffalo country. Shortly before sunset on the first day of the conflict the camps were discovered by a scouting party of the Sixth Iowa cavalry under Major Thomas. Reinforcements were sent for and when they arrived the battle commenced. The fight continued from moonset till dark. Under cover of the darkness the Indians made their escape, but returned two days later to engage an attempt to regain their camp. The fight was renewed and ended in a rout of the Indians, who left about two hundred dead on the battlefield. The white troops lost twenty-three men and nearly one hundred wounded.

He is regarded as one of the finest strategists and tacticians in the navy. Moreover, he has spent more than forty years active in the Chinese and Pacific stations, to say nothing of the European station and his years of duty in American waters. In a technical way he has also been prominent. For years he was president of the Naval War College. He was a member of the General Board and of the Joint Army and Navy Board, which considered the question of fortifications of the American insular possessions. Later he was one of the American delegates to the Peace Conference at the Hague.

But in one respect Admiral Sperry is regarded by his brother officers in the service as a very unfortunate officer. Despite his forty years and more of service he has never had the good luck to fight for his country. He was appointed to the Naval Academy from Connecticut in 1862 and graduated in 1866. He thus narrowly missed an opportunity to take part in the Civil War. When the United States engaged in hostilities with Spain in 1898 he was given command of the Yorktown, and started across the Pacific to the Chinese station. But by the time he got to the other side, Admiral Dewey had killed him at Manila Bay and he ended out the Spaniards and there was not anything in the fighting line for Sperry to do.

During the Spanish war Commander Sperry is reported to have sought the bureau at Washington for a ship but was told, "You can have a ship, but that is not where we need you. Any officer can command a ship. We need your executive ability at home. You go up to Brooklyn and straighten out the tangle there."

He became a captain in 1900 and a rear admiral in 1906. In the summer of 1908 he succeeded Rear Admiral Evans in command of the battleship fleet and continued in command during the entire cruise from San Francisco to the Philippines and thence by way of the Suez Canal to Hampton Roads.

One of the most exciting episodes in the career of Admiral Sperry occurred when he was a young midshipman on the old corvette Sacramento. On a stormy night and during a thick fog the vessel lost her bearings and drove on a reef off the coast of Hindustan, becoming a total loss. The crew made an effort to reach the shore by the use of rafts. One of these was swept out to sea by a current, and its 29 occupants might have perished had it not been for a timely rescue which was effected by a passing steamship. Sperry, along with the rest of the crew, reached the land, and after a succession of privations and danger the party made its way to Madras, and was there put on board a chartered steamer and brought home.

SAYS PROHIBITION DOES NOT PROHIBIT

Salvation Army Worker Says Conditions in Milwaukee Are Better Than in Many "Dry" Towns.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 2.—On the eve of his departure for a new field, after a year's work in this city, Capt. H. H. Kilne, head of the local industrial home of the Salvation Army, says that Milwaukee, despite its great brewery interests and its open town reputation, is far superior in general conditions than the prohibition towns of which he has knowledge.

"When I came to Milwaukee," says Capt. Kilne, "I had heard so many tales about it being a great brewery center, that I expected to find the city full of saloons and disorder and poverty and crime."

"But I have been most agreeably surprised. I have been stationed in nearly every large city in the country, from coast to coast, and from the Canadian border to Mason and Dixon's line, and I have yet to find a city of any considerable size where conditions were so good."

"In many prohibition towns and cities I have learned from sad experience that prohibition does not prohibit. The difference is that while the workingman in Milwaukee gets his glass of beer and goes home, the man in the prohibition town, knowing the difficulty of getting a drink every time he wants it, lays in a stock consisting of at least a bottle, many times more. Then having it so ready at hand, he doesn't stop till it's all gone."

"In these so-called prohibition towns there is more drunkenness, crime, disorder, poverty and suffering than I have ever seen in Milwaukee. Of all the men we have adopted since I have been here, and they number hundreds, I can safely say that at least nine out of every ten were transients passing through the city."

"The people here are a sober, industrious lot. How rarely one hears in Milwaukee of a drunken brute going home and abusing his wife and helpless children. And yet that is one of the most frequent results of drink, especially drink as served out in these prohibition towns."

Capt. Kilne has been a year in Milwaukee, but has fully justified the reputation which preceded him as an earnest and capable worker. Many improvements and increased facilities in the industrial home, a largely increased income, testify to the service rendered here, and his brother officers in the army feel that the loss to the workers here will be serious. He has been in this work twelve years.

EVANSVILLE FAIR MOST SUCCESSFUL

Baby Show This Morning Attracted the Attention of the Visitors—Ball Game This Afternoon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Sept. 3.—Taking it all in all the Evansville fair has been the most successful yet undertaken by the fair association. The crowds have been uniformly large and the exhibits much better than in past years. The absence of the big show and the presence of the biggest pumpkin and the fastest steer bring back the days of the old time county fairs. The exhibits are all good but this morning's exhibit of babies capped the climax.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ames carried off the first honors for having the best baby over one year of age, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robert's baby had second honors in the same class.

Mr. and Mrs. George Noyes had the pleasure of seeing their baby decorated with the first prize for babies under one year of age, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence George for second honors in the same class. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Loyd's baby and baby carriage carried off first honors in this class with Mr. and Mrs. James Blake's baby and go-cart second. Mr. and Mrs. Amund had the prize for the best twins awarded to their pair.

Mrs. Frank Moser of Janesville, Mrs. Edith Allen of Janesville, and Miss Ella Truman of Evansville were the judges at this interesting exhibit which was part of the floral parade and the feature of the morning exhibition. The Houghton band furnished the music and a large delegation from this city came with them.

Owing to the wet grounds this morning the ball game scheduled between the Postville White Sox and the Chicago Union Giants was postponed until this afternoon and was a most interesting contest. The game also attracted their share of attention.

Yesterday's Races:

Yesterday afternoon's races were watched with interest by quite a considerable crowd. The 2:40 trot with a purse of two hundred dollars attracted was won by Helot, owned by W. Fisher, of Milwaukee. Sis Hopkins, owned by H. T. Chandler, of Monroe, captured the three hundred dollar purse hung up for the winner of the free-for-all. Below is given the scoring of the various horses in the races:

"CUBS" CALCIMINED CHEER CLASSY CLUB

Pride of the Bush League Humbled by Soft Drinkmakers in Local Option Town.

After a long string of victories, the Janesville "cubs" bumped up against a "poppery" proposition at Harlem Park yesterday and were blanked by the "Dr. Peppers" of Rockford after nine innings of fruitless endeavor. 3 to 0. The "Cubs" found the opposing pitcher, but lacked by an errorless defense, could not secure anything that remotely resembled a run. Considering the team, which is one of the best semi-pros in Rockford, the "Cubs" were fortunate to get off as easily as they did.

RAYMOND HEARING DEFERRED A DAY

District Attorney J. L. Fisher and Atty. M. O. Mount Are Confering With Chicago Witnesses.

There was a disappointed gallery in municipal court this morning when the hearing of the action brought against Laverne P. Raymond on the charge of murder was adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The adjournment was taken on account of the absence of District Attorney J. L. Fisher and Attorney M. O. Mount, counsel for the defendant, from the city. The two lawyers went to Chicago this morning to talk with the witnesses who are ready to come here and establish an alibi for Raymond and if possible save the state heavy costs for witness fees. In event the prosecution is convinced that Raymond's acquittal is a moral certainty. If there are three perfectly respectable people who will swear that Raymond, in their company, witnessed a performance of "The Soul Kiss" at the Colonial theatre at Chicago on the night of Jan. 21, it is hardly likely that the somewhat doubtful identification by Mrs. Cronin and the young boys will count for very much.

COOK'S DISCOVERY
The question now arises what will the United States do with the North Pole now that it has been discovered? Will it annex it and declare that in fee simple it owns the top of the earth or will it merely let its flag remain flying and permit others to visit the region without paying any entrance fee? The real value of the discovery of the pole appears to be most problematic. Its intrinsic value is apparently nil from any commercial point of view, but scientifically it is said to be a most wonderful discovery. However, America has the satisfaction of knowing that one of its citizens was the first to plant old Glory as far north as it can be placed and that is something that counts.

There is but little doubt that the first ward aldermen are getting more than busy in replying their wards' streets. Good roads advertise a city and in the first and fifth wards the roads are kept in good shape.

Oil on streets as an experiment in Janesville will be watched with interest by property-owners who are tired of having to pay for second grade macadam as though it was the real thing.

Evansville enjoys its fair and welcomes its visitors. Next week Green County takes a dig into the public's pockets and the week after comes the state fair in Milwaukee with Taft as the leading attraction the last day.

There is no primary election this fall to worry the politicians and the public generally, but still there is lots of talk on the political situation on every hand.

All things taken into consideration that former Crown Prince of Serbia should congratulate himself that there is an asylum for the criminal insane in his father's kingdom.

As far as can be learned Dr. Cook found the Pole very solid and able to stand many more centuries. The Pole expressed great surprise at being discovered, however.

Next time that Lone Pennsylvania train robber wants to get a bag of nickels to go along with those pencils he secured.

Lycium managers are already anxious for Cook to reach America, so that they can begin making dates for his lectures.

School begins next week, so this is the last day of the vacation that seemed so long coming and now so short in passing.

Lieutenant Shackleton got his story of his voyage to the South Pole in the magazines just in time.

Stockholm is having something different than a picnic with its labor troubles.

Any one may be excused for having cold feet when on a trip to the polar regions.

Forty years of trouble has not driven that Prohibition party to drink at any rate.

Hay-fever victims will not regard the first frost with unalloyed regret.

Another way to tell that September is here is to ask the price of coal.

Here is where the idle railroad stock begins to roll.

UNCLE WALT
THE POET PHILOSOPHER
By WALT MASON
(Copyright, 1909, by George Mathew Adams.)

The wizard of the garden, the scientist who found a way to raise a peartree with branches underground, who gave us boneless LUTHER pumpkins and non-explosive BURBANK live pens, and gutta-percha lettuce, and beats that grow on trees—this wizard of the garden, with venom is assailed, by lesser lights of science, who tried his stunts and failed. And thus it was forever, and thus 'twill always be; the man who wins must suffer the shafts of calumny. We're mostly small potatoes, we critics here on earth; we kick at big achievements, we snarl at sterling worth; we view the greater triumphs of industry and art, and we find no blemish, it nearly breaks our heart. Go on, O Luther Burbank, the Wizard of the West! Hoed not the hoofs of people by jealousy oppressed. Send forth your seed-green roses, to scent a thousand June, produce your horselove radish, and double action prunes!

Finda Son Dead in Fire.
Cincinnati, Sept. 3.—Responding to an alert of fire William Willis, captain of a fire department in the suburb of Norwood, found his own home in flames and the dead bodies of his son, Albert, five years old, and Virgil Englist, four years old, being carried from the place. Mrs. Willis was seriously burned while attempting to rescue her son.

Fire Bug Still Busy.
Evansville, Ind., Sept. 3.—The incendiary who has been starting a number of fires in this city continues his work. Eight more barns have gone up in smoke. This makes 27 barns destroyed by fire during the last week, and all have been of mysterious origin.

Total Depravity.
"I suppose you have a wife and eight children," sneered the homeless man. "Great Scott, no!" answered Plooding Pote. "If I had, don't you suppose I'd be home makin' 'em work?"

THE BLESSING OF WORK.
Are you obliged to work for a living?

Happy you!
You are doing what the Almighty intended you should do. You are carrying out his design in you.

Work makes man.
Idleness maims men. The sloth exhausts; he does not live. Labor develops character. And character determines destiny and happiness. You cannot put fiber into a man except by putting him up against labor. Therefore—Work is discipline.

He who goes through life without discipline is not a man. He is only a thing. He is part man, part embryo. He is the nucleus of a human. And, while the clanking of discipline for the time may seem grievous, yet it works out a far more exceeding right of glory—manhood.

Work is normal exercise.
The loner is a flabby misfit. He does not blend into the scheme of things as they are. It matters not whether he is worth a million or 30 cents. He is a wart on the body social. He is a fungus, an excrescence, without function and void. But the worker, whatever his work, is a part of society—a necessary part. He belongs to his race.

Work is contentment.
If you doubt it, stop working for awhile and note how discontent comes to you. Work is man's ability. The worker fits into things; the quitter is out of touch. Work is man's natural expression of himself. And no man is content who is not expressing himself in some form of effort.

Work pays.
Aside from the return in dollars and cents, work pays big dividends. It is an investment that pays good interest. It pays in sense of satisfaction. And if one is in love with his work it brings a joy he cannot find elsewhere—the joy of accomplishment.

Work is service.
And that is the glory of it. When it is understood as service rendered, labor is dignified, as it ought to be. When you are doing some of the world's work you are rendering a return to the world for your birth and nurture. You are paying off your obligation. YOU ARE DOING A MAN'S WORK IN A MAN'S WAY IN A MAN'S WORLD. You are contributing your share. You are keeping up your end. Angels could do no more.

Work is happiness.
It is a refuge from discontent. The absorption of it drives away worries and cares. And in its blessed depths many a sorrow is buried for a day.

Stricken Monterey Sends Help to Rayones—Report Many Dead.
Mexico City, Sept. 3.—Relief is being hastened to Rayones, the mountain town swept away by a recent flood. News of the destruction reached Monterey yesterday morning and a mule train of supplies set out at once. Quicklime was a part of the stores carried, as reports have it that decomposed bodies are a menace to the health of the survivors. No estimate of the dead is at hand and concern is felt for the safety of the town of Lerco in the state of Coahuila.

The Necas river has overflowed its banks and the surrounding country for miles on either side is under water. Owing to a cloudburst at the source the river is reported to be still rising. Huacenda Santa Rosa is under two feet of water.

ROGER M. LEE KILLS SELF.
Noted Cleveland Lawyer, Ill. Commits Suicide with Pistol.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 3.—Roger M. Lee, 60 years old, an attorney who was formerly a member of the faculty of the Western Reserve Law School, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. His health is supposed to have caused the deed.

Recently Lee made a trip to Georgia in the hope that his health would be improved by a change in climate; but he was disappointed. He went into a garage at his home and killed himself. Members of his family heard the shot and went to his assistance. He died in a few minutes.

One Dead; Three Injured.
Youngstown, O., Sept. 3.—Rose Hoffman, aged five years, was killed, and her father, mother and sister were seriously injured in an automobile accident at Lowellville, near here.

Fear 600 Have Perished.
Batavia, Java, Sept. 3.—It is estimated that 600 natives have perished in the floods in southeastern Java. The damage to property and crops has been enormous.

Labors Land in Panama.
Colon, Sept. 3.—The railroad steamer Ancon landed 1,500 Barbados laborers at this port.

Canada's Maple Sugar Output.
Canada produces nearly one-half the world's supply of maple sugar, about 18,000,000 pounds annually.

Not the least remarkable thing in this world in which we grope and have our being is the amazing differences that can exist in the children of the same parents.

DROUGHT ACUTE; WELLS GO DRY
CROPS AND PASTURE FIELDS IN EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA BURNED UP.
FARMERS SUFFER BIG LOSS

Thousands of Workmen in Mills and Factories Thrown Out of Work by Scarcity of Water—Worst in Many Years.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—Farmers in eastern Pennsylvania have suffered enormous loss from drought this season. Crops have been destroyed and there has been no pasture for stock. It has been several months since the district has had a real rain.

A dispatch from York, Pa., says the big paper mill of P. H. Claffelter Company at Spring Grove, Pa., has been compelled to suspend operations because of the drought. The works are operated by water-power, and operations will not be resumed until the water supply is replenished by a rain-fall.

Worst in Many Years.
The dispatch adds that York county is experiencing the most serious drought within the memory of living persons. Wells and springs in the county have gone dry and supplies of water for various boroughs are becoming exhausted.

The Schuylkill river is at the lowest point in its history, and more than 1,000 persons employed in the mills at Manayunk, a suburb of this city, are idle because of the scarcity of water. A canal company which has control of the water which flows over a day at Manayunk has asked the mill owners to close down for a day or two in order that enough water may be accumulated in its canal to float to tide-water a number of barges loaded with coal.

FORMER CAR DRIVER DIES RICH.
Frederick Gwinner, of Pittsburg Leaves $3,000,000 Estate.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 3.—Frederick Gwinner, 67, aged 77 years, former president of the Enterprise National bank, a director in several other institutions, and one of the foremost financiers of this city, died at his home on the North side after an illness of a week, death being caused by acute indigestion.

Mr. Gwinner was the first man to drive a horse car in Pittsburg and was heavily interested in the old Pittsburg, Allegheny & Manchester Railways Company. His fortune at the time of his death is estimated at $3,000,000.

The deceased endowed himself to the hearts of hundreds of poor people in this city shortly after the failure of the Enterprise National bank several years ago, when he paid out of his own pocket $400,000 to those who lost all their savings through the alleged peculations of the cashier of the bank.

EACH FEATURE HAS MANY CONTESTANTS

Scores Attracted by Newman Bros. Pianos, Diamond Rings, Scholarships in Janesville Business College and Solid Gold Watches.

ONLY ONE MORE DAY REMAINS

Enthusiasm at White Heat. Contestants Working Hard. Winners Will Have To Go Some.

DON'T BE LATE AT FINISH

Each prize feature in this great event has many contestants—undoubtedly the beautiful Newman Bros. pianos are the most eagerly contested for—not a more desirable prize could be given, and The Gazette wants these prizes to go to the three young ladies who have put forth the greatest amount of effort up to Saturday evening, September 4th.

The three scholarships in the Janesville Business College are causing a great amount of good-natured rivalry, as many of the young ladies realize the advantage to be gained by having a business education.

The three diamond rings are being given away from one of the best classes of schools in the state, and makes a practical and valuable prize.

The elegant rings and solid gold watches demand their allotted amount of recognition and are receiving same.

Don't Be Late.

The contest manager has done his part to make clear the conditions under which the votes must be registered to the end that they may be counted. It is all plain enough sailing and he just wants to utter a caution to the contestants. Of course there is not much use advising anybody against the practice of holding out votes and trying to deceive competitors by a show of indifference. That is a matter for the contestant to decide for herself. The essential thing is to get the votes into the office and if these are being held out now, the contest would be judged in assuming that there are—why, they had better get to the office in time.

This contest will close on the stroke of 9 o'clock, standard time, on Saturday night. Votes handed over The Gazette counter at 9:01 will get nothing but a tired smile from a tired clerk. Votes that are mailed a minute too late will be of no avail.

No More Votes Returned.

From now on no more votes will be returned to the contestants outside of the city, but will be deposited in the ballot box at once. This is done for the reason that delays very often occur in transmitting the mail and the delay at this time would mean the loss of thousands of votes. Contestants can rest assured that they will be given proper credit and votes for all subscriptions sent to this office between now and Saturday, but all votes will be deposited in the ballot box as soon as received.

Those who depend on the mails to bring in their votes and subscriptions should mail them not later than Friday so as to be sure that every vote will be in the ballot box on time. If they are mailed on Saturday, put on a special delivery stamp, as the Gazette votes must be received at The Gazette office before 9 o'clock Saturday evening in order to count. No votes will be accepted after this hour. Candidates who have subscriptions should bring them in as early as possible to avoid the rush of the last few days.

Amazing Interest.

And it may be well stated right now that the growth of interest in the contest which is now approaching it close has astonished everybody concerned. The contest editor, whose function is simply to keep the contestants and their friends of The Gazette's great family informed as to what is going on, and who has no function as an arbiter or referee, has suddenly found himself the size of a neighborhood, not so much for individuals, as for the widespread interest, which has developed on behalf of the communities in their candidates. It shows a pretty healthy state of public feeling when a great number of communities will make the cause of one of their citizens the interest of the entire body and get out and root for him like a crowd of undergraduates rooting for a football team. That is what it amounts to in some cases against county, city, village, and village against village, but the spirit of competition has extended to rural routes, and through these are not being organized as some of the towns are, they are prompted by certain candidates and are lining up like opposing political parties. Small boys and girls, young men and women and mature persons of other sex are working for their friends in a manner that goes to show that the world is no more responsible to the promptings of good feeling than it ever was.

CLERICAL REPORTE.

A country minister in the course of his dining out on the circuit came to a house where most chickens were served for dinner. He had previously encountered a series of earned beef dinners, and the chicken looked good. "Well," he remarked, "here's where the chicken enters the ministry!" "Hope it does better there than in lay work," rejoined the host.

MUCH TALK IS BEING CREATED BY THE GREAT GOOD IT IS DOING.

So much talk is being created by the great good Root Juice is doing at this point that some people think it is good for every ailment. The scientist said: "Root Juice is not a cure all. There are many troubles it will not benefit. It will not cure organic heart and lung troubles, cancer and other incurable maladies, but if it is used for any trouble of the stomach, bowels, liver or kidneys that can be cured with medicine, I believe Root Juice will remove obstructions and give nature a chance to restore health. The combination of roots and other ingredients in Root Juice has a remarkable soothing, healing and tonic action on the stomach, bowels, bladder, liver and kidneys." Numbers of local people have called at the Reliable Drug Co.'s drug store and reported rapid improvement under the Root Juice treatment. A lady who for various reasons does not wish her name published, said: "I was so bad before taking Root Juice with my kidneys and stomach, that I could not straighten up after stooping without sharp pains shooting thru my back; had dizzy spells, and was very nervous. My eyesight was badly affected. Kidney secretions were very frequent. At night, my hands and feet were cold. The circulation was very poor. When I got up of mornings, I at times died as when I went to bed. At times there was a feeling in my stomach like I had swallowed rocks. I often had severe pains in my side and had frequent headaches. I was very sallow with dark rings under my eyes. I tried many medicines without benefit. Root Juice is making a new woman of me. My complexion is clearing up. I have a good appetite and digest my food, my kidneys no longer give me trouble and I am entirely free from pain, although I have only used the great remedy a short while. Such praise is now being heard every day from the Reliable Drug Co.'s drug store. The Juice is one dollar a bottle or three bottles two dollars and a half. Adv.

SECOND BASEMAN MCCONNELL OF BOSTON AMERICANS.

Boston, Mass.—Never playing a professional baseball game until he was 30 years of age, Second baseman McConnell of the Boston Americans is one of the strongest members of the team that now threatens Detroit and Philadelphia for the American league lead. McConnell had been noted for years as a semi-pro player but the professional game did not appeal to him. Finally he was signed by Boston, and in 1908 was a near leader in the race for American league batting honors.

Tribes Have Retrograded.

It seems strange that though Hebron was the seat of the earliest civilization in Palestine, to-day the inhabitants of the surrounding country are wild and fierce and spend their days roaming about with their flocks, camels and asses, travelling from valley to valley in search of food, pitching their tents, just as their ancestors did 1,000 years ago.

BUYING UP STOCK
OF THE COMPANY

DIFFICULTIES OF THE ROCK
COUNTY PHONE COMPANY
BEING SETTLED.

MANY WILL SELL SHARES

Those Who Desire to Continue Present Company to Buy Holdings of Those Who Wish to Sell.

Apparently all question of a possible sale of the stock of the Rock County Telephone company to the Wisconsin company is at an end and the present company will be continued. This, it is learned, has been brought about by a decided change in sentiment on the part of many who signed the statement that they would accept the Wisconsin company's stock at the figures offered for it.

Those who desire to sell, it is understood, will be readily accommodated by those who wish to retain their interests in the local company and who have raised a fund for the purpose of taking up all the outstanding shares of those willing to sell. Not only that, but several gentlemen who have not hitherto been interested in the company, it is said, will take large blocks of the stock.

This adjustment of the trouble which has worried the company and the general public for some time past, is the solution of the difficulty. It is now certain that the city will continue to have two telephone systems as in the past and that when the old stock is taken over a new meeting of the stockholders will be called and a new board of directors named, which will elect an entirely new set of officers.

It is understood that all the present officers and directors of the company with the exception of the treasurer, Hiram Murdoch, will sell their interest in the company to the pool fund and the new investors, and being out of the company, will resign office at once.

The offer of the Wisconsin company it is understood, still remains open for the company to accept, but it is certain that all liability of its being accepted is now past.

EAGLES PLAN OUTING

AT THE SELGAE PARK

Annual Affair Up the River on Sunday Promises to Be Most Interesting.

On Sunday next the annual outing of the Janesville Aerle of Eagles will be held at Selgae park, up the Rock river, on the site of the old Crystal Springs park. Each year the Eagles and their friends from the city and surrounding country, have an outing up the river, and usually there is a good time in store for all who attend.
The committee in charge of this year's outing promises nothing short of the best time ever experienced and promises ball games and sports of all kinds including the famous "Jungle Stew" which is even now in the hands of a reliable chef for preparation. The proceeds of this picnic go into the fund which the lodge is raising to send a delegation to the next state convention of Eagles at Shioygan, with a formal invitation on the part of Janesville Aerle to hold the Ninteenth Eleven state gathering in Janesville. This would mean the bringing of several hundred delegates and three to four thousand visitors to the city for three days, and would probably be held in July so that the Fourth could be properly celebrated. The visitors at the Sunday picnic will go up by boat.

WANTS WOODEN LEG
HE WAS PROMISED

Rudolph Donnerstag Writes United States Marshal Flint to Make Good His Agreement.

Rudolph Donnerstag, one of the trio of desperate counterfeiters that was confined in the Rock county jail for some weeks, has written United States Marshal Flint that he wants him to make good his promise of providing him with a wooden leg. Rudolph and his brother, Albert, were arrested for counterfeiting and taken to Madison, where they were confined in the Dane County jail from which they escaped. When recaptured they were brought to Rock county jail and remained there until taken to Madison and sentenced to Ft. Leavenworth prison.

After their escape from the Dane county jail last October they returned to their home near Rhinelander. When deputy marshals called at the Donnerstag home Rudolph escaped to the woods. He was detected by a deputy after a chase lasting a day and while attempting to run away from the officer he was shot in the leg. It was necessary to amputate the limb. It appears that while on his way to Ft.
Leavenworth the deputy told him that they would furnish him with a wooden leg. Rudolph now holds Mr.
Flint liable for the promise of the deputy.

Albert Donnerstag is afflicted with tuberculosis and is being treated in the prison hospital.

ROCK CO. SCHOOLS
WILL HAVE EXHIBIT

County Superintendent Preparing An Exhibit to Be Displayed at the State Fair.

Rock county schools and the work that is being done in them, is to be represented at the state fair which will be held in Milwaukee, the middle of this month. County Superintendent O. D. Antfeld is at present making ready an exhibit of the work done by the pupils in the rural graded schools and this will be displayed in the educational department of the fair.

The exhibit of educational work at the fair will no doubt be one of the best ever shown there. From the various colleges of the University of Wisconsin, an expensive display will be sent; the normal schools are also to exhibit; high schools from all parts of the state will send maps, constructive work, essays and other interesting work done, and the exhibit of the graded schools and the country schools will be the most complete one ever shown. The charitable institutions of the state will also have an exceptionally fine exhibit.

CHANGES MADE AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH

New Heating System Has Been Put
In And Other Alterations to Building Have Been Made.

During the summer months the First Baptist church of this city has undergone a considerable overhauling and alteration, all greatly improving the structure. A new heating plant, to supplant the old one which was not large enough, has been installed, and the old kitchen has been torn out and an addition built on so that it is now possible for several hundred people to be served with meals. The church parlors have been redecorated and the furniture stained to match the decorations.

The ladies of the church have already purchased silverware sufficient to serve four hundred people at once, and on Wednesday at a meeting held it was decided to expend over one hundred dollars in order to purchase the necessary paraphernalia to serve a crowd of that size.

IT WORKS.

The Laborer Eats Food that Would Wreck an Office Man.

Men who are actively engaged at hard work can sometimes eat food that would wreck a man who is more closely confined.
This is illustrated in the following story:
"I was for 12 years clerk in a store working actively and drank coffee all the time without much trouble until after I entered the telegraph service.
"There I got very little exercise and drinking strong coffee, my nerves got unsteady and my stomach got weak and I was soon a very sick man. I stopped eating tobacco and in fact I stopped eating everything which I thought might affect my except coffee, but still my condition grew worse and I was all but a wreck.
"I finally quite coffee and commenced to use Postum a few years ago and I am speaking the truth when I say, my condition commenced to improve immediately and today I am well and can eat anything I want without any bad effects, all due to shifting from coffee to Postum.
"I told my wife today I believed I could digest a brick if I had a cup of Postum to go with it.
"We make it according to directions, boiling it full 20 minutes and use good rich cream and it is certainly delicious.
"Look in place for a copy of the famous little book, 'The Road to Wellville.'
"There's a Reason."
"Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FROSTS HAVE DONE A VERY SLIGHT DAMAGE

Reports From Southern Dane And Northern Rock County Show Loss is Very Small.

There were two nights when a light frost visited the growing crops of tobacco in Southern Dane and Northern Rock county. The visit was so slight that it will do nothing more than hasten the growers into getting their crops into shed as fast as possible.
Riders throughout the country all express wonder at the rapid development of the leaf within the last few weeks and it is expected that if the crop is cut and in shed before any severe damage is done it will prove to be as fine as any of the past few years.

Many fields, however, have not been topped properly, the crop growing too fast to accomplish this after the real growth began and this will detract somewhat from the value.

E. N. Cron this morning brought into the Gazette office some excellent samples of broad leaf and a hybrid leaf of his own development showing that the average of the crop is way above that of ordinary years. The leaves in question are in most excellent shape and were taken at random.
The Edgerton Reporter, talking of the situation, says:

"The new crop has been pushed on at a rapid pace since last report, the movement appearing to all sections and hundreds of buyers riding the country districts. It is doubtful if there was ever so many contracts closed in a given time as during the week past. All that was needed was the grower's consent to close the trade when the tobacco held good promise of reaching the sheds. Northwest has competition seemingly driven up prices much. The great bulk of sales has been made around the 10 cent mark for the wrapper and under grades, with an occasional variation above or below these figures. Sales covering thousands of acres might be given within the limits named. The crop has improved so rapidly of late as to give promise of a larger yield than for the past two years if the season had been extended long enough for it to reach the sheds.

"But frosts were visible over a greater part of the state on the morning of September 1st. In the northern sections it was severe enough to mark the top leaves on low lands so that possibly half the state will show slight effects of an unusually early frost.
It is difficult to tell just what writing how extensive the damage was. The has been the first heavy week of the harvest and up to date not to exceed a loss of the crop has been secured.
Nothing has developed in the market for old leaf worthy of mention.
"The shipments out of storage reach but 300 cases from this market to all points since last report."

SEPTEMBER WEATHER
AS IT IS PREDICTED

Rev. Irl Hicks Forecasts What Will Happen This Present Month.

It is interesting to note that Rev.
Irl Hicks, the St. Louis long range weatherman says that a regular storm period is central on the 10th with high temperature and low barometer and storms of notable character will organize and take up their outward march. These conditions will grow in magnitude and force during the three days following.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 15th to the 17th. Should the storms of the preceding period not subside before the new moon on the 14th, threatening to stormy conditions will continue. Frosts in northern extremes should not surprise one if these contingencies arise.

On the 21st, the central day of the autumnal equinox, prompt changes of temperature and barometric pressure will be noted as early as the 19th.
By the 21st these conditions will bring on storms of rain, wind and thunder and these will touch most parts of the country, sweeping eastward.

The crisis of the last storm period for the month promises to be retarded so as to fall on and touching the 29th and 30th. Marked storm conditions will prevail over most sections of the country at this time with promises of prolonged disturbances into the first few days of October. This really promises to be the turning period, when summer conditions will give place to autumnal, and when tropical storms will make a last battle with boreal influences and be immediately followed by change to much cooler weather and frosts over much of the country to the northward.

Home the Important Point.

Ruskin says: "The true history of a nation is not in its wars, but in its home and household; the hope of the world lies with the children."

CATTLE ENTRIES AT FAIR ARE VERY BIG

Largest in Years Will Be Paraded
Before Taft at the State Fair.

Charles L. Hill, superintendent of the cattle exhibit department of the state fair, through the remarkable show of cattle of all breeds that he has secured for the Wisconsin cattle show last year and for the show at the coming state fair, has jumped into prominence among exhibition owners and breeders of the Northwest. Under Mr. Hill's management, the state fair cattle show has become better known and of more importance to the breeders of doing and beef breeds than either of the shows at Minnesota or Iowa. He has induced the board to offer a more diversified list of prizes and consequently has brought to the Wisconsin fair the cream of the exhibit states making the circuit of fairs.

A review of the premium list shows that the State Board of Agriculture and the various breed associations, besides private concerns and individuals, at the solicitation of Superintendent Hill, have provided liberally for the prize money to be awarded to contestants. About $24,000 in cash prizes, besides a long list of special premiums of various kinds, are offered in the various live stock departments, distributed as follows: The cattle department, about $10,000; horse department, $7,000; sheep department, $4,000; swine department, $3,000. This is very much in accordance with the way in which exhibitors have been treated in previous years, and has been organized effort on the part of breeders' associations has made each department to some extent what it is in its standing as a part of the state fair's live stock show.

Mr. Hill, who will be one of the party of inspection that will accompany members of the legislature and Milwaukee business associations over the grounds September 8th to see the result of the expenditures of the last session's appropriations, said yesterday: "The state fair live stock shows have gained a high place in the first live stock fair live stock shows of highest rank in the country, and each year in the past live stock section ground play. Last year was the happiest year, in spite of the general low tone of business in all live stock circles throughout the country, and this year it is expected that former shows will be far outstripped in point of number of exhibits and high quality of the show in all departments.

It is not only the cattle department that has been making every fair look up and take notice, every division of the live stock department has been settling the pace for other states and in some instances better animals are to be found at the Wisconsin state fair than at either the International Stock Show or the Iowa or Minnesota state fairs.

A keen interest in the live stock development of the state should be felt by every farmer in the state. It is well known that many can learn valuable lessons and improve their livestock with regard to what constitutes a good cow, sheep, hog or horse by attending the State Fair and studying the exhibits that will be present there. Better animals are not exhibited at any show in the country, and usually the cream of the live stock exhibits at Wisconsin's fair forms a neat part of the cream of the largest general live stock and dairy shows held in the country. Our farmers should study the live stock exhibits each year as they are made at the State Fairs, and should try to improve their own herds from what they learn. They are not only judgment and what they learn from their observation will stay with them.
Our general agricultural improvement advances only as our live stock to the state is improved, and therefore it is very important that study for improvement of the latter should go on each year with renewed interest. It was pleasing to note the many farmers that took a keen interest in the live stock exhibits and judging last year, and the close study they made of what they saw. Let them all and as many more, come again this year. There will be many new animals to observe and study, and some of those present before will be back to show the fine development they have undergone within the year.

DENIES HE IS ONLY
A SIMPLE MAGNATE

Ambassador Frederick Thompson, Who Visited Milton College in June, Makes Formal
Denial.

American Ambassador Frederick E.
Thompson, in an interview given out at Mexico City, denies that he is a magnate. Mr. Thompson was one of the visitors at the Milton college commencement exercises last June and has many friends in the vicinity who will be interested to learn that he refuses to sanction the report that he had purchased the Pan-American railroad for $10,000,000, netting an annual for $2, 11. Harriman.

He declares that he was in no way connected with Mr. Harriman and that he had not purchased any railroad.

He admitted, however, that he has been trying to purchase the road, but that he would own it himself if successful. If the deal, which is pending, should go through, Ambassador Thompson will own $1,600,000 of the stock.

METHODIST DISTRICTS
WILL REMAIN SAME

Change Proposed in West Methodist Conference at Monroe Voted Down
by Large Majority.

[Special to this Gazette.] Monroe, Wis., Sept. 3.—There will be no change made in the districts of the West Wisconsin M. E. conference, the body now in session here having yesterday adopted by a large majority the Benson resolution leaving the districts as at present. The conference by resolution went on record as being in favor of a salary of at least $1,700 for superintendents and at least $600 and house for pastors. A superintendent to succeed the late Dr. Samuel W. Truesdale of Madison will be selected at this conference.

Ninety-three entries have been made for the races at the Green county fair next week. Some of the well known owners of Chicago will send horses here and among the fast ones will be High Fly, with a mark of 2:04½. He is a member of the Frost string of five which includes Knight of Strathmore, the Monroe colt, which has been making a clean sweep in his class through the west. There will be a running race each day of the fair. Twelve runners have entered.

Saturday will be the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. D. S.
Young. The anniversary will not be celebrated and came near passing without notice, being brought to mind by accident.

Green county home-comers have responded to invitations with acceptance in larger numbers during the past week than during the preceding weeks and now it is certain that the accommodations offered by the hotels and the homes will be taxed to the utmost to take care of them. Daily

This was an obvious misinterpretation of his words that she stopped short and bit her lip. He sighed audibly, as if he were very sorry that he could do nothing to appease her, but this only made her feel more injured. She made an effort to speak coldly.

"You seem to forget that so long as we are supposed to be engaged, I have some little claim to know how you spend your time!"

"I make no secret of what I do. That is why you were angry just now. Nothing could have been easier than for me to say that I was busy with one of the matters you suggested."

"Oh, of course! Nothing could be easier than to tell me an untruth!" This certainly looked like the feminine retort-triumphant, and Margaret delivered it in a cutting tone.

"That is precisely what you seem to imply that I did," Logotheti objected. "But if I told you was untrue your argument goes to pieces. There was no Tartar lesson, there was no Tartar teacher, and it was all a fabrication of my own!"

"Just what I think!" returned Margaret. "It was not Tartar you spoke, and there was no teacher!"

"You have me there," answered the Greek mildly, "unless you would like me to produce my young friend and talk to him before you in the presence of witnesses who know his language."

"I wish you would! I would like to see him! I should like to see the color of his eyes and hair!"

"Black as ink," said Logotheti. "And you'll tell me that 'his complexion is black, too, no doubt'?"

"Not at all; a sort of creamy complexion, I think, though I did not pay much attention to his skin. He is a smallish chap, good-looking, with hands, and feet like a woman's."

"I noticed, that. As I told you, a doubt occurred to me at once, and I will not positively swear that it is not a girl after all. He, or she, is really a Tartar from central Asia, and I know enough of the language to say what was necessary."

"Necessary?"

"Yes, he—or she—came on a matter of business. What I said about a teacher was more nonsense. Now you know the whole thing."

It was all very well to talk about learning Tartar! How could she be sure that it was not modern Greek, or Turkish? She could not have known the difference. Was it so very unlikely that some charming compatriot of his should have come from Constantinople to spend a few weeks in Paris? She remembered the mysterious house in the Boulevard Pereire where he lived, the beautiful upper hall where the statue of Aphrodite stood, the doors that would not open like other doors, the strangely-disturbing encaustic painting of Cleopatra in the drawing room—many things which she distrusted.

Besides, supposing that the language was really Tartar—were there not Russians who spoke it? She thought there must be, because she had a vague idea that all Russians were more or less Tartars. There was a proverb about it. Moreover, the English as well as the French, Russians represent romance and wickedness.

"I don't understand you at all," Margaret said less fully, but with the aid of little air of a woman who believes herself misunderstood. "It was very odd yesterday, at the telephone, you know—very odd indeed. I suppose you didn't realize it. And now, this afternoon, you have evidently been doing your best to keep Mrs. Rushmore from leaving us together. You would still be telling her stories about people if I hadn't obliged you to come out!"

"Yes," Logotheti, asserted with exasperating calm and meekness, "we should still be there."

"You did not want to be alone with me, I suppose. There's no other explanation, and it's not a very flattering one, is it?"

"I never flatter you, dear lady," said Logotheti gravely.

"But you do! How can you deny it? You often tell me that I make you think of the Victory in the Louvre."

"It's quite true. If the statue had a head it would be a portrait of you."

"Nonsense! And in your moments of enthusiasm you say that I sing better than Miss Bonham in her best days."

"Yes, you know quite as much as she ever did, you are a much better musician, and you began with a better voice. Therefore you sing better. I maintain it."

"You often maintain things you don't believe," Margaret retorted, though her manner momentarily relaxed a little.

"Only in matters of business," answered the Greek with imperturbable calm.

"Pray, is learning Tartar a matter of business?" Her eyes sparkled angrily as she asked the question.

Logotheti smiled; she had reached the point to which he knew she must come before long.

"Oh, yes!" he replied with alacrity. "Of course it is."

"That accounts for everything," he said, and he would exert her influence as he had begged her to do. He was thoroughly persuaded that there was nothing unfair in his proposal and that, when she was convinced that he was right, she would help him.

But when he had taken the first step towards accomplishing his purpose, he was very much at a loss as to the next; and he saw that he had never undertaken anything so difficult since he had recognized the Nickel Trust, trebled the stock, cleared a profit of thirty millions and 'ruled' nobody but the small fry, who, of course, deserved it on the principle that people who cannot keep money ought not to have any. Some unkind newspaper man had then nicknamed it the Nickel Trust, and had called him Dr. Van Torp; but it is of no use to throw mud at the Golden calf, for the dirt soon dries to dust and falls off, leaving the animal as beautifully shiny as ever.

Mrs. Van Torp did not quite see how he could immediately apply the force of money to further his plans with effect. He knew his adversary's financial position in Europe much too well to think of trying to attack him on that ground; and besides, in his rough code it would not be fair play to do that. It was "all right" to ruin a hostile millionaire in order to get his money. That was "business." But to ruin him for the sake of a woman was "low down." It would be much more "all right" to shoot him, after fair and due warning, and to carry off the lady. That was impossible in a civilized country, of course; but as it occurred to him, while he was thinking, that he might find it convenient to go somewhere in a hurry by sea, he bought a perfectly new yacht that was for sale because the owner had died of heart disease the week after she was quite ready to take him to the Mediterranean. The vessel was a least as big as one of the ocean liners of 50 years ago, and had done 22 1/2 knots on her trial. Mr. Van Torp took her over as she was, with her officers, crew, cook and stores, and rechristened her. She had been launched as the Alwyn; he called her the Lanchester Lass—a bit of sentiment on his part, for that was the name of a mare belonging to Lady Maud's father, which he had once ridden bareback when he was in an amazing hurry.

He had one interview with the captain. "See here, captain," he said, "I may not want to take a trip this season. I'm that sort of a man. I may or I may not. But if I do want you, I'll want you quick. See?"

With the last word, he looked up suddenly, and the captain "saw," for he had a pair of eyes that astonished him.

"Yes, I see," he answered mechanically.

"And if you're in one place with your boat, and I wire that I want you in another, I'd like you to get there right away," said Mr. Van Torp.

"Yes, sir."

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

MOST of us think of law as a hard unfeeling thing and of people as much more kindly and merciful.

And yet the law gives everyone the benefit of the doubt. Every man is deemed innocent until he has been proven guilty.

How do people do that?

Do you do that?

When you hear that some girl was seen going to a disreputable hotel with a man do you at once condemn her or do you say to yourself that there may be circumstances and explanations that you are not in a position to know, in short, give her the benefit of the doubt?

That's about all gossip is—referring to possibilities or probabilities as proven facts, refusing to give people the benefit of the doubt.

In a town where I once lived there was much talk about a certain girl.

And all of this talk I found by inquiry was founded on just these facts.

A middle-aged man used to come to her home quite frequently to take her out automobile.

She was at home only week-ends. The rest of the time she spent in a large city about a hundred miles away. What was she doing? "Well, the family SAY," my informants responded, "that she is studying music at the Conservatory."

Despite the unprofessionally suggestive accent they put upon the "say," as far as I could make out, no one had any special grounds for doubting that fact.

Next, the family did not appear to have a great deal of money, and yet the girl wore very nice clothes.

Lastly she was very pretty—always more or less an inditement, especially in the eyes of women with less attractive daughters.

This was the whole case against her.

Her doers knew nothing of the man—He might easily have been an uncle or an elderly cousin or an old friend of the family for all they knew.

The doubt in that case was so large that it seemed to me to much overshadow the likelihood of evil.

And yet those women—some of them, women who would be astonished if they heard themselves called anything but good—dared to refuse to give her the benefit of the doubt.

On that basis they dared to consider her guilt as a settled thing and to refer to it as such.

Can you not think of some time in your life when circumstances placed you in such a position that anyone who dared to think evil might have condemned you, although you were perfectly innocent?

You wanted the benefit of the doubt then. You may want it as badly again sometime.

The best way to deserve it is to give it to others.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, September 2, 1860.—A Profusion of Pigeons.—From farmers living in different parts of the county we learn that during the past week pigeons have been so plenty some days in the wheat fields, that stackers were compelled to leave their work and drive the birds from the stacks. They seem to have mainly disappeared at the present time.

Soldier's Monument Meeting.—A meeting will be held tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, at the Register's office, for the purpose of organizing an association, and fixing on some definite plans to procure funds for the erection of a soldier's monument in Rock county. It is earnestly desired that all soldiers of the county enter into the undertaking, for without hearty cooperation there can be no success, and to this end attendance is requested tomorrow evening. The people of Rock county have done comparatively nothing to perpetuate the memory of their dead soldiers or to show to the survivors that the community share with them the feeling of veneration and respect for departed comrades. Let this most excellent work go on, and let the people throughout the county enter with the spirit of the past into a cause in which all alike are interested.

A Good Show.—Mr. J. S. McGowan has left with us a bunch from a transcendental emblem tree, about twelve inches in length, bearing upon it nineteen apples. A comfortable yield certainly.
